

Child Care in Practice

Our Writers' Workshop series provides guidance on how to get your research or practice work published. The first workshop is in December with a follow-up workshop in February.

These workshops are free and are open to post-graduate students, researchers & practitioners across all fields of social sciences & the humanities. The workshops will be especially relevant for those who have undertaken or are supervising substantial pieces of research or practice that – with a bit of effort and guidance – may be suitable for publication in academic journals such as Child Care in Practice.
